

COVID-19: WHAT PEOPLE WITH CANCER SHOULD KNOW

Managing cancer during Covid-19 is stressful.

But, you don't have to figure things out on your own. Your doctor's office is there to help.

Only consider delaying treatments or canceling any appointments after talking with your doctor.

Call your doctor's office several days before an appointment to see if there are any special precautions you need to take.

Remember you can protect yourself and help reduce the spread of Covid-19 by wearing a cloth face covering in public spaces, staying at least 6 feet from other people, and washing your hands often.

Learn more about staying safe during chemotherapy and Covid-19 at PreventCancerInfections.org

This resource was made possible through a CDC Foundation partnership with Amgen Oncology.